Dear Hal -

I had intended to write you a letter about what I learned at the Dallas Symposium last month, but I simply don't have enough time to do so right now. I'll write more about this in the near future. There was, in fact, very little I learned (as you would expect).

In any event I'm sending you a bunch of items which I hope will get to you before the Christmas rush. Most are articles I picked up in Dallas which, of course, are yours for the record.

One item I'm enclosing is the Steve Barber analysis of the acoustics and I'd really like to know your thoughts on this. Does he have a valid point (a points) that the tape didn't pick up the sounds of the shots? And is he right about McClain not being the tape & what/who is being heard?

Anyway have a good holiday season & I'll be in touch soon, again.

Best,
Hal
